Who is Sunetra Sastry and why did she become popular

Sunetra Sastry, a makeup artist who was born in England in 1957, is perhaps most famous for having been the ex-wife of Mr. Bean himself, comedian Rowan Atkinson. He however has contributed to several well-known movies, like "The Lion King" or "Johnny English." Until being divorced, the two had been married for 25 years.

Profession and Lifestyle:

Sunetra experienced a difficult upbringing because of the bigotry she encountered in England. Sunetra is of English mixed Indian ancestry, and his mom, who came from a wealthy family, gave up her name after having fallen into a relationship with a lower-caste caste Indian guy. She neither received any information from her mom, who claimed that the union was reason enough to cause her to lose his mom's support.

Sunetra became interested in end up making after her high school graduation and wanted to work in that field.

Although initially opposed, her family did not prevent her from enrolling in London's Beauty College. Though they insisted she switch to nursing, her parents finally caved and encouraged her desire.

She started to work in the UK entertainment field after completing her education when she first encountered Rowan Atkinson when helping with the "Black Adder" Television set. After that job, she went on other assignments, such as the BBC television film "Smack & Thistle."

Individual Lifestyle

While doing the cosmetics for her co-actor Stephen Fry in "Black Adder," Sunetra first saw Rowan around 1986. She caught Rowan's attention, and he persuaded Fry to switch beauticians so they might have to understand her. Following collaborating for a short while, the two began dating, decided to get married in early 1989, and eventually hitched the following year when Fry served as Atkinson's groomsman. They were married for 24 years, produced two kids, and then abruptly announced their breakup.

In 2014, the pair announced their intention to file for formal divorce, and speculation quickly spread that perhaps the artist's affair was the reason for their breakup. Rowan began dating comic Louise Ford soon after their divorce, although it was not officially announced. Sastry and he divorced the next year because he failed to show up for the proceedings which led to a speedy decision in the matter.

How Rich Sunetra Sastry Is...?

Sunetra Sastry's overall gross value is 650,000 USD, but it's likely because she benefited from both the divorce decree and the fortune that her ex-husband, Rowan Atkinson, is said to be valued at approximately 130 million USD.
